Soon after the grack, Dr. Gaines was called in and found the patient suffering from exerueisting pain in the put of the stomach. Medicine was speedily administered, and a favorable change occurred within a few miantes. Afterwards coloniel was given with the happiest effect, the cold and clanmy state of the extremities and surface. giving place to a gentle, warm, and healthy glow. Both physician and patient thought the danger passed, but suddenly the pain returned, and shifting to the region of the heart soon produced death. Dr. Gaines denominates it a spasm of the heart.
